Why we want you

We understand that people lead busy lives, whether you are a student, work part-time, enjoy socialising, are a parent or grandparent juggling children, work, and family responsibilities, or have a host of other commitments.

Help us save the environment by volunteering for woods and trees in a way which suits you, from a one-off event to an irregular or short-term commitment. However you wish to give your time, we want you to be able to get involved!

Our Drop in Days roles will make volunteering for woods and trees more accessible and will help us achieve our goal of enabling everyone, no matter age, ethnicity, disability or skill, to volunteer with us.

What you will be doing

- Planting trees

The skills you need

- No skills needed - just a love of the outdoors

What's in it for you

- You'll be helping create a new woodland in your area
- Make lasting memories with friends and family as you plant trees together
