Why we want you

We understand that people lead busy lives, whether you are a student, work part-time, enjoy socialising, are a parent or grandparent juggling children, work, and family responsibilities, or have a host of other commitments.

This role is reaching out to those that work in schools, so if you work in a school or have an existing relationship with a school as a governor, parent or part of the support or teaching staff, consider signing up in this micro-volunteer role.

In this flexible volunteer role, help us save the environment and join over 15000 schools by talking to your school about our Green Tree School Award.

Our 'Drop in Days' roles will make volunteering for woods and trees more accessible and will help us achieve our goal of enabling everyone, no matter age, ethnicity, disability or skill, to volunteer with us.

What you will be doing

- Learn about our Green Tree Schools Award using our information pack. The Green Tree Schools Award encourages outdoor learning and inspires pupils about trees, woods and wildlife.
- Through our award, your school can take part in fun, practical projects while helping the environment and improving your grounds.
- Your pupils can also earn certificates in recognition of their achievements and a special plaque to display in your school.

The skills you need

- No skills needed – just an existing connection to a school or schools and a bag of enthusiasm to share the work we do and a passion for woods, trees and nature.

What's in it for you

- Fit volunteering around your other commitments by sharing the work we do to people in your community who you already know or work with.
